A correspondent whom we take great pleasure in obliging asks us to inform him who is the anther of the "Arabian Nights," and what is the meaning and origin of the proverb, "A Roland for au Oliver." He says that the first he has "either forgetten or never knew." We think it highly probable that he never knew. We certainly do not know. and have never heard of anybody who does.

The "Arabian Nights" has been the subject of loving devotion to the most accomplished Orientalists for the last century and a half, but, so far as we know, the boldest of them have not ventured even to speculate on the authorship of the remarkable the fables that compose it originally appeared has been ascertained with any degree of certainty. The most definite as well as authentic view of its origin seems to be that of Von Hammer, the celebrated German Orientalist, who is of the opinion that these wondrous tales originated in India, were subsequently transplanted to Persia, and finally were incorporated into the Arabian literature, early in the eighth century. Wherever they first sprung up, it is, in the nature of the case, almost as impossible to trace the course of their formation until they acquired the shape in which they found their way into Europe as that stimulated its expansion. They are popular growths rather than individual compositions.

The origin of the phrase, "A Roland for an Oliver," is also disputed, but its meaning, we believe, is unquestioned. It means a successful retort. When, in almost any strife, but especially in passages of wit, a man gives another as good as he sends, he may be said to give him a "Roland for an Oli-Our impression is that the most generally accepted account of its origin is a very spirited rivalry between two notorious wags of the olden times who bore these names respectively. "THE VIRGINIANS."-The Washington correspon dent of the Pennsylvania Inquirer has the following very sensible remarks touching the current stric tures on Thackeray's new novel:

tures on Thackeray's new novel:

The dispute now going on respecting. Thackeray's delineation of the life and character of Washington, in his new novel entitled "The Virginians," now in course of publication in Harper's Magazine, is creating considerable interest in literary circles here. We profess to know rather more of the personal and social character of the Father of his Country than people living at the other ends of the land. His home and early associations were in this country, and we have or have had living among as those who knew him intimately when alive.

While, therefore, we yield to more in the respect and reverence due to his memory, we are accustomed to regard him as more a mortal than a demi-god. It is simply ridiculous to suppose that in his earlier days, the period adopted by Thackeray, he was in any respect elevated by a sort of sanctity above his fellows. He was a very fine young man, without doubt, but he was not an angel. It will not do to regard him at that period as a nursaling god, feeding only on nectar, or as removed from the common passions, propensities, and impulses that are common to all mortals in their fielding state.

Mr. Thackeray represents him as he was at that age, probable to the life. Such was undoubtedly his intention, and we hold here that it is unfair to a seribe to him improper motives, at least until we see how he dispose of his hero in the #male. The attack upon Thackeray is more probably designed to reach kiss publishers, and professional jestonsy of the admirable Monthly of the Harpers bas seized mon this as the most salient point from which to appeal to the sympathics of the public.

This last imputation of the Inquirer's correspon dent may not be very charitable, but, after carefully examining the passages of "The Virginians" to which exception has been taken, we can't help thinking it highly plausible. Many excellent persons, no doubt, having their thoughts fixed on the historic Washington, the Washington whom the world knows and work. Neither the country nor the century in which reveres, feel sincerely indignant at a novelist, and a foreign novelist, too, who disturbs this grand conception with the passions and the joys of youth, forgetting that, perhaps, a biographer, if faithful to his charge, might be compelled to do the same thing. This is a weakness which we can understand and pardon. It is an intelligible, a generous weakness. But it is not so easy to comprehend without condemning a similar demonstration on the part of astute and experienced critics. They must certainly know better. And if so, their motive, whatever it is, cannot be a proper one. However this may be, we entirely agree with the correspondent of the it would be to trace the development of a tree, point- Inquirer that the strictures in question, by whomsoing out the particular bursts of storm or sunshine ever made, are not merely unjust and narrow but

The work in this establishment is superintended by Mr. Billings, who has no superior as a machinist. The engine has twenty inches stroke and weighs semething over 8,000 pounds. The whole machinery, including boiler, will weigh only about 17,000 pounds. Its cost is $850, which is the New York price for such an engine.

Mr. Billings is about constructing a portable engine similar to that manufactured by the Newark Works, and exhibited at the last Agricultural Fair. The cost will not be more than that of the Newark engine, which is $650. Mesers. Hawley, Billings, & Co., mannfacture also all descriptions of brass work, and as cheap and beautiful as is made at any point in the country. It is the duty of our citizens, and especially our business men, not only to patronize such establishments, but to use their influence in getting patronage for them. To the South, especially, our manufactories offer superior advantages. While the work transportation from here is less.

A young gentleman of Indiana, just from Ber lin, asserts that the stories regarding Gov. Wright's parsimony and oddities, which have been so widely circulated, are all gammon. He affirms that the Governor deports himself according to the customs of the country, is assiduous in his duties, is very popular with all classes of citizens, and especially so with Americans.

RIVER AND STEAMBOAT MATTERS.

The river was about at a stand last evening, with feet 2 inches water in the canal by the mark and 61/2 feet on the falls.

The David Gibson was still aground on the falls last evening. She had a large coal barge alongside, on which most of her freight had been placed. She was affeat once, but swung back on the rocks again barder than ever. It is doubtful whether she will be got off.

For New Orleans .- The large and elegant steamer James Montgomery, Capt. Sam. Montgomery, will leave for New Orleans this evening. Travelers can not find a safer boat than the Montgomery. She has fine accommodations and is in charge of careful and competent officers.

For Memphis .- The fleet steamer Alvin Adams is the packet for Memphis this evening. She is commanded by Capt. Lamb, and Messrs. Halliday and Golding have charge of the office. The Adams has splendid accommodations, and makes her trips with the regularity of clockwork. She connects at Memphis with one of the New Orleans packets, The Adams arrived last evening. We are indebted to her clerks for favors.

The fine packet John Briggs will arrive at Portland at 8 o'clock this morning and return to Henderson this evening. Mr. P. M. Garner, her clerk, telegraphed from Evansville that she has the largest trip of the season. We recommend the Briggs to travelers and shippers.

THE NOVEL SHOOTING MATCH.-It has been announced that Capt. Travis has accepted a wager to shoot, at three shots, three oranges, placed upon the head and hands of a boy. It is certainly a most remarkable feat, only equalled by that of the great Wm. Tell, with his "cross-bow and arrow," shooting an apple off his son's head. It will require an extraordinary amount of coolness, nerve, judgment, and precision even to make the attempt and much more to accomplish it successfully, as we are certain the Captain will do. Great steadiness of nerve and acute sight are required to thus delicately stitution: therefore Congress is not sovereign. In the same in the captain will do.

Capt. Travis is a man of medium height and size and well formed. He has a mild blue eye, with a very earnest expression. In manner he is perfectly easy. With a high degree of suavity, he combines great coolness. He is the very man to execute what he proposes, possessing, as he does, all the requisites necessary to accomplish his aim and hit his object. The pistol which he intends to use in this trial shot is one made by Morgan James, of Utica, New York, who has no superior in such workmanship. The oranges are each to be 21/4 inches in diameter; one is placed on the top of his head and one ou the back of each hand, the arms being exians" good, but not the slightest injury.

A Splendid Machine.— We saw in operation yesterday at the foundery of Hawley, Billings, & Co., corner of Eighth and Water streets, an engine built for Governor Morehead, to be used on his plantation for a cottou gin and rotary saw mill. It is one of the finest pieces of warkmenship we have ly lad. He has every confidence in the ability of Capt. Travis to hit each object, and has equally as much in his own nerve, which cannot be surpassed. He is now under daily training. The boy's feet are placed twelve inches apart and his hands upon his hips. The Captain shoots through the angle made by the bending of the arms and between the feet. This is done to accustom the boy to the firing, and, if possible, give him more confidence and make him feel at ease. From what we have seen, he possesses all the nerve requisite to the perfect accomplishment of this most extraordinary feat. The little fellow is a native of Louisville, and his mother is always present during the practising. She is entirely satisfied that it will result in safety to her son.

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT .- Last evening, a lad named McCoy, about 13 years of age, the son of a widow who resides on the north side of Jefferson street, between Third and Fourth, fell in attempting to get on the Portland car while it was iu motion and the wheels passed over his right leg below the knee. The car was immediately stopped and he was taken on board. When he was taken np, the first remark he made was, "What will my mother do?" The lad was selling papers, and had often boarded the cars in that manner, though repeatedly warned of the danger.

The leg was amputated last evening by Professor Flint, while the patient was under the influence of chloroform.

The Twenty-second of February was appropriately observed in Mayslick. A procession of citizens, Odd Fellows, and college pupils, led by the splendid hrass band of the village, was formed and marched to the Baptist church, where prayer, vocal and instrumental music, orations, &c., took place. Joseph K. Snmrall, J. Sprigg Chambers, and J

B. Herndon were the orators of the day. The celebration closed with a grand concert a night, which was liberally patronized.

The city conncil was in session last night. writ of mandamus was issued some weeks ago by Judge Mnir, of the circuit court, against the coun cil, requiring them to have the Courthouse finished. The board of aldermen passed a resolution appropri ating $600 for a plan and specifications to finish it. We do not know whether it passed the council.

Washington, March 4. Senate .- At one o'clock the Kansas question was

Mr: Hammond contended that the Lecompton coustituion embodied the will of the people of Kansas, for the convention itself was an assemblage of the people in their highest capacity.

Mr. II. said he understood that the Senator from the constitution embodied the will of the people.

Mr. Hammond had understood that Mr. Donglas maintained that all other irregularities could be maintained that all other irregularities could be cured by Congress, and that was some ground for difference between them. But the question is, how can the will of the people of Kansas be ascertained? He thought Douglas in error in saying that the Lecompton constitution was the creature of the Territorial Legislature, and thought that from that error had probably arisen all his subsequent errors upon that subject. How was it possible that the convention could be a creature of the Territorial Legislature? The convention was an assemblage of the The convention was an assemblage of the ture? reople in their highest sovereign capacity—about to perform the highest possible act of sovereignty. The Territorial Legislature was a mere provisional the Captain will do. Great steadiness of nerve and acute sight are required to thus delicately play with hair triggers, while aiming at an orange on the head of a gentle and confiding youth, who trusts his life to your keeping for the time being. When we reflect that the least tremor or movement of a muscle may be sufficient to cause a premature discharge, and that the deviation of the fraction of an inch from the precise aim might terminate fatally to this trusting lad, the feat appears as fearfully wonderful as it is certainly novel.

said about the matter the better.

The true object of the opponents of the Lecompton constitution was the agitation of the slavery question. They wanted to introduce the elements of discord into the Democratic party. It is singular that while claiming a majority in Kansas they should be beaten at every election. Discussing the question of slavery, he spoke of the prosperity of the South, and said that the condition of the slave was better than the poor white laborers of the North. More beggars could be seen in one day in New York than during a whole lifetime in the South. He closed by saying that if the South was obliged to surrender to the government after sixty years, they would surrender it with a country abundant in prosperity, incalculable in strength, and the wonder and admiration of the world.

House .- Mr. Hoard again disclaimed all party spirit, or any intention to wound the feelings of any man. When he introduced the proposition he did not suppose there would be any opposition. He con-tended that it was a legitimate subject of inquiry; that common fame was a sufficient ground for investigation: that it is a common rumor that the Executive is now endeavoring to control the action of the House as has been heretofore endeavored. It was a common rumor that led to the investigation in Walcott's case. In moving the inquiry it was not in pursuit of a victim, but an offender. He said he was informed that Mr. Morris had twice endeavored to get the floor to make some affirmation of state-ments which Burns denied, relative to his vete in reference to the Lecompton message being referred to the committee on territories. Messrs. Smith and of Illinois, had both informed him (Hoard) that Burns was previously relied on as an anti-L compton man.

Mr. Blair repeated the conversation with Morris, corroborating Hoard's statements.

Mr. Nicholas said, when common fame was presented as a ground for investigation, it was beneath the dignity of the Honse. The allegation against his colleague was false. Mr. (liddings asked Nichols to make an exception in favor of John Quincy Adams, who once declared on this floor that while President he never but on one occasion asked an appointment; that was of a deputy postmaster, in whose favor he wrote a note to McLean, who declared the applicant was untit;

Mr. Nichols replied that there were honorable exceptions. As to Burns's vote, no member had stated

Mr. Mchois replied that there were indicated and his own responsibility any reason or motive for his change. He moved to lay the subject on the table, including the resolution in relation to Brns which Hoard had offered except as a substitute. This substitute provided for the appointment of a committee to inquire whether any collusion had taken place between the President and Brns, and whether improper attempts had been made directly or indirectly to influence the action of any member of this Honse on any measure on which the House has acted or has under consideration, with power to send for persons and papers.

FRIDAY EVENING, MARCH 5, 1858.

In a recent discussion before the London Society of Arts, Mr. C. W. Williams, the well known engineer, exhibited a drawing of the boilers of the Leviathan steamship, and took occasion to say that they presented the greatest violations of natural and chemical laws that he had ever witnessed. He ridiculed the idea of their burning coal in the furnaces without great waste of fuel or an enormous evolution of smoke. Each boiler-double boilerof the Leviathan contains twelve furnaces, and about four hundred thousand cubic feet of atmospheric air per hour are required for proper combustion of the gases alone; but in what manner the air is to get into the furnaces does not appear. Mr. Williams remarked that it really seemed as if the utmost pains had been taken to exclude the air, it being as impossible for the air to be supplied through the fuel on the grate as for a man to breathe the air which comes from the lungs of another person. It is an ascertained fact in chemistry that a ton of coal preducing ten thousand cubic feet of gas requires one hundred thousand cubic feet of air for thorough combustion, and by some it is estimated at even double that quantity.

A DESTRUCTIVE FIRE AT LEWISPORT, KY .-About five o'clock on Wednesday morning, a fire broke out in a hotel kept by Mr. Pearcall in Lewisport, Ky., a town on the river about twenty miles above Owensboro, and. before it was arrested, destroyed the hotel, a private dwelling belonging to Mrs. Maygard, and six stores, constituting a large portion of the compact part of the town. Most of the goods in the stores were saved, only some $4,000 or $5,000 worth being destroyed. One person had $1,000 in bank notes burned up. The buildings consumed were cheap frame buildings, and the loss is estimated at from $10,000 to $12,000. We learn there was no insurance on any of the property.

The London Herald's Paris correspondent now says that the suppression of every journal in Paris has actually been in contemplation; that the proposition was discussed at the late meeting of the Cabinet, and was opposed only by the Emperor and M.

SEVERE SENTENCE .- Judge Mallon, of Cincinnati, has sentenced Sophia Fanenberger to the penitentiary for life for infanticide.

Mrs. Sharp, who was found guilty of heing an accessory to an abortion, was sentenced to the county jail for three months.

THE UTAH EXPEDITION .- The Washington correspondent of the Journal of Commerce says, under date of the 1st:

The troops in Kansas—about 2,500—are to be organized without delay for the new expedition to Utah. They will conduct a large train with supplies, animals, &c., for the relief of Col. Johnston's command, as well as for themselves.

Army men make much objection to the employment of volunteers for service in Utah. They say that, for a long march, the best disciplined troops are necessary. Volunteers could not be so far restrained as to preserve themselves from the hazards of the expedition. They would suffer more from their own imprudence than from any enemy. Besides, the Mormons have a hatred of the volunteers. and will make a desperate war against them. As to the regulars, they say they have no enmity to them, and will not resist them by force. But, said Brig-ham Young to Capt. Van Vliet, "if the rabble from Missouri and Illinois come here, we will quietly dispose of them.'

I am persuaded by information which I have re-ceived that a volunteer force, if raised either on the Pacific side or on this side, for service in Utah, would be useful only for the purpose of bringing about a war of extermination. The Mornions would soon cut off a small force, and a larger one could not subsist. The regular trops will be restrained from collision with the Mormons, and the latter will avoid a conflict with them. Thus, a chance will be afforded for the re-establishment of the authority of the Livited Scate in Living without a war. the United States in Utah, without a war. The Mormons will find it their interest to submit quietly to the sovereignty of the United States, and this they may do, without relinquishing their absurd and heathenish institutions and practices.

The emigration to Salt Lake from Iowa and Newarks and the chaps States and Torritories where brasks, and the other States and Territories where Mormons are now established, will be considerable this spring. Their trains will start this month. It this spring. Their trains will start this month. It is intended, if possible, that the expedition for the relief of Col. Johnston shall be in readiness for starting this month.

THE AMERICAN SIMP ADRIATIC AND THE FRENCH AUTHORICIES .- As considerable interest has been mauifested in the case of the American vessel Adni-atic, which recently escaped a second time from the hands of the French authorities, we thought proper to inquire at the State Department whether the owners of the vessel had made any complaint in re-gard to her seizure, or whether our consul at Lyons had made a report concerning the affair. Nothing, we learn, has been communicated to the Department on the subject. It is, we understand, the opinion of the Secretary of State that our Government has no anthority to interfere, as no complaint of injustice to our citizens has been made, and as the case is one to be decided in the legal tribunals of France alone. If the Adriatic be overtaken and recaptured in a port to which the authority of the laws of France does not extend, the case will be quite different, and our government may then, it is thought, very properly extend its protecting power and influence.

Letters received in Belfast, Me., announce that Capt. Durham of the Adriatic had completely eluded the search of the steamer sent after him, and had reached Spezzia, where he had taken in provisions, and was on the eve of sailing for New York. The following extract is from a letter received by his brother:

SPEZZIA, Jan. 20. We arrived here on the 18th from Marseilles, after giving the Frenchmen the slip. I went on board the Adriatic at 9 o'clock in the evening for board the Adrance at 3 o clock in the evening for our departure, and, with four men, bent the top-sails then hauled out through the ships, down to the mouth of the harbor, and made sail. Before daying the were out of sight of the city. I was obliged to slip both suchors, and put to sea without them. It was a pretty good night's work considering the circumstances. I am now safe in regard them. It was a pretty good night's work considering the circumstances. I am now safe in regard to being seized by the French authorities, as they cannot take me here. The Sardinian Government will not allow me to land, and as I cannot get anchors I shall have to come on without them. The United States store keeper here has furnished me with stores enough to reach the United States. I don't know what sort of a scrape I shall have next.

J. B. DURHAM.

"Ah!" said Mrs. Partington, as she stood looking at the placards stuck all over the front of a store, advertising "damaged goods" for sale. It was not a big R like those which doctors begin their prescriptions with, but the simple ejaculation "an!" and as she said it, people going along listened to hear what she had to say. "This," continued she, running along like a wheelbarrow, "is what is meant by Mr. Jaqueths where he says 'sweet are the uses of advertisements, but,"—and here she butted against the word "damaged," making two syllables of it, with a profane construction on the first, that made her hold her haads up in unqualified horror. "But though the goods are aged, I don't see the need of putting it quite so strong—so much stronger than the goods are, I dare say." Ike here pulled at her sleeve, at the same time kicking a big dog on the nose who was smelling at her "ridicule," and the old lady moved on amid the crowd.—Boston Post. "Ah!" said Mrs. Partington, as she stood looking

New regulations have been adopted by the respective Post Office Departments of this country and Great Britain for the treatment of newspapers in the mails, found to contain writing or any enel sare, the object being to check the fraudulent practice referred to, which is now prevailing in both the intention of the officers to enforce its provisions countries to a much greater extent than formerly. These regulations prescribe that newspapers posted in the United States for the United Kingdom, or vice versa, if found to contain writing or any en- a heavy panalty on the keeper of the house who closure, shall, at the option of the dispatching country, either be stopped and sent to the dead letter ofe, or be forwarded, charged with full letter postage United States and British combined; and if the writing or enclosure be detected in the country to which such newspapers are sent, a like course shall be adopted. The Postmaster General has therefore instructed the respective United States exchange offices to forward all newspapers addressed to Great Britain found to contain writing or any euclosure. charged with full letter rate of postage; and postmasters throughout the country are particularly eujoined to scrutiuize such papers closely with a view to detect frauds of this character.

"Vog bond," of the New York Sunday Times, discourses eloquently about society in Washington before Lent:

There were here all the somebodies and very many of the nobodies; the latter in large numbers, but the former in larger. There were breakfast parties and dinner parties, day receptions and evening receptions, nutnees dansantes and balls, suppers without women and women without suppers; indeed, the whirl was so incessant that I was at last glad to get out of it and rest from my labors. We think in New York that we know what gaiety is, think in New York that we know what gaiety is, but ours is tame by comparison with the intensity of Washington dissipation. We have some sort of a respite during the day. If, at the beight of the season, we go to two and, once in a great while, to three parties a night, we lie late next morning, and gather strength for the next night's efforts. But they never sleep in Washington; tired nature's sweet restorer is not "received" there; no arrangements are made in regard to her; you dance at a ball till four o'clock in the morning, and are expected to be prompt at a breakfast with Congressmen who go to the House at twelve. Now, I have paid visits in New York on the morrow of some recherche fete, and not found the ladies "at home;" their fatigue incapacitated them for receiving; but in Washingincapacitated them for receiving; but in Washing-ton there is a nightly occasion, and a round of visit-ing besides, which allows you no intermission to recruit.

The day receptions are not like the matinees in New York, attended almost exclusively by the beau seze; you will find a Cabinet minister at home with his wife and daughters, and see half a dozen of the most prominent statesmen in the country flirting in the half-light of the parlors, or two or three well-known soldiers hanging over some charmer at the piano. Indeed, the most distinctive feature of piano. Indeed, the most distinctive feature of Washington society is the presence of men of talent and character. Everybody knows and hewails how much our New York society is given up to boys and girls; how few distinguished men are to be seen at our balls; how comparatively lowered the tone of conversation thus hecomes; how sadly deficient the most hrilliant saloons are in brilliant talkers. most hrilliant saloons are in brilliant talkers. Dancers we New Yorkers have in ahundance, and here and there a musical house can be pointed out; hut the number of ladies who are able to gather around them a circle of prominent or talented men for an evening can be counted on your fingers. They manage these things better in Washington; they dance there as much and as well as we do. The people who can do nothing but dance are accommodated; the Lancers's music is heard as regularly every night in every parlor as you enter, and as every night in every parlor as you enter, and as constantly till you leave, as it is here; but this is not all. Older people, and people who have other than social position, men who have made their mark in the world, are to be seen at all the entertainments; are not rare enough to be lions; are the rule rather than the exception.

A Washington belle scorns a man who has not something to distinguish him. She demands a name something to distinguish him. She demands a name as well as a man; a name, too, known outside of a single set; something more than irreproachable manners, faultless toilette, and divine dancing; something more than fortune, or family, or fashion. She may be exorbitant, but she asks for talent, and the distinction which this has brought its possessor. No inglorious Miltons, no guiltless Cromwells will do; the man must have achieved some of his greatness, if he hopes to make an impression upon these exacting fair ones: and when statesmen, successful if he hopes to make an impression upon these exacting fair ones; and when statesmen, successful politicians, generals, diplomats, and men of this stamp crowd the 100ms, it is impossible that the entire tone of the society they frequent and compose should not be affected. So, there is at once dignity and ease distinction and source fairs. The convershould not be affected. So, there is at once dignity and ease, distinction and savon falre. The conversation is finer, and the society is more cosmopolitan; there is neither the provincial coldness of Boston, nor the hauteur of Philadelphia, nor the pretence of New York manners. The necessities of public life oblige the leaders to be anything but exclusive; everythely, is admitted but the influence is greatly and rybody is admitted, but the influence is good, and you see as little bad manners as in the most select circle elsewhere.

[Correspondence of the St. Louis Republican.] FROM THE PLAINS.

WESTFORT, Mo., Feb. 23, 1858.

Mr. Kitchen, freighter, arrived here on the 22d inst., having started from Tecalote, New Mexico, on the 20th of January. At the time of starting, there was no news of importance in the Territory. The Indian tribes were all quiet and looking to trade.

Mr. Kitchen comes in this early to get goods to New Mexico in time for the heavy spring trade anticipated.

He came down the Cimarone route, affording good dry grass for animals and willow twigs for fire. At the upper Cimarone Spring he met about one hun-dred and fifty Kiowas. They were friendly, and, atter a short interchange of good relations, passed on up the river to where the great body of the nation was encamped.

At the lower Cimarone Spring he met a large war force of Comanches. A long Indian talk ensued. They expressed the best feelings for the white brother. Said they heard there would be a heap of trade carried on by the white man across the Plains next season. So far as their people were concerned, the trains would not be disturbed, neither would any demands ever be made again upon the white people. If the Great Father chose to send them on presents they would gratefully receive them, but would not they would gratefully receive them, but would not think hard if they were neglected.

What seems to have softened down these Indians was, that they had heard much "big talk" about the white soldiers going to wipe out the Mormons.

Coming on the Arkansas river, and when within fifteen miles of Pawnee Fork, he suddenly met about 1250 Araphee warriers, all armed with large cannot be suffered to the suddenly met about 250 Araphee warriers, all armed with large cannot be suffered to the suddenly met about 250 Araphee warriers. fifteen miles of Pawnee Fork, he suddenly met about 250 Arapahoe warriors, all armed with lance, gun, and pistol. Never were Indians better equipped. He was ordered to halt, which he did with dispatch. Storm, the chief, with a few chosen, gathered around on the ground, lit the calumet, Kitchen in their midst, and then talked a la savage. Storm related that he had just had a big fight with the Pawnees, on Pawnee Fork, the day before. The contest was a bloody one. Ten Pawnees were killed, some taken prisoners, and almost every one who escaped was wounded. Ten bleeding scalps were displayed by Storm to prove his assertion.

Storm also displayed a letter written by William Bent, a trader, in which he was endorsed as a popular and brave Indian in the Arapahoe tribe, worthy of the bounty of travelers. Mr. Kitchen was thus Bent, a trader, in which he was endorsed as a popular and brave Indian in the Arapahoe tribe, worthy of the bounty of travelers. Mr. Kitchen was thus politely compelled to release himself of a great part of his provisions. He was then permitted to pass on. That night he camped at Pawnee Fork. Some of the boys, in hunting wood to build the camp fire, found many dead horses lying about, dreadfully gashed, and also picked up two Pawnee Indian hands that had been lopped off in the fight. It was the battle ground described by Storm.

Mr. Kitchen found in the Little Arkansas river, further on, ten dead Pawnee bodles. Some of them were submerged in the water and lifelike, others on the verge were in a state of putrifaction. It is sup-

IMPORTANT TO TAVERN AND COFFEE-Ilouse KEEPERS .- In the Journal and Bulletin of the 10th of December last the following decision of the court of appeals, prepared for us by Gen. John M. Harlan, was published. We reproduce it, as we learn it is strictly. It will be seen that it prohibits the playing of any game for liquer even, whether it is cards backgammon, dominoes, or any other, and imposes permits it:

Marston vs. Commonwealth, from Campbell Circuit. Marston was indicted for permitting games at which money and property were won and lost, to be played in his house, in violation of sec. 10, chap. 42 of the Revised Statutes. A demurrer to the indict-ment was overruled, and upon trial be was found guilty, and his fine assessed by the jury at two hun-dred dollars, for which sum a judgment was rendered against him

A new trial was moved upon the following grounds:

1st. That the courterred in granting and in refusing instruction to the jury, and 2d, That the verdict was contrary to law and the evidence. This motion was overruled, and Marston appealed.

The grounds for a post trial below were relied on

The grounds for a new trial below were relied on for a reversal here, and it was also complained that the circuit court erred in overruling the demurrer to the indictment, the indictment.

Judge Stites delivered the opinion of the court.

Ileld—With regard to the action of the circuit court in overruling the demurrer, it is sufficient to say that the Criminal Code (sec. 349) provides that a judgment shall not be reversed for "an error in not setting aside an indictment or in overruling a demurrer thereto."

demurrer thereto.' demurrer thereto."

The proof conduces very clearly to show that Marston, who kept a coffee-house or liquor shop, permitted games of cards and dice, such as "Euchre," "Rounce," and "Kossuth," at which liquor and cigars or "treats" were won and lost, to be played in his house. Indeed it appears to have been a resort for that purpose.

The statute neither discriminates as to the amount of money nor the value of property won or lost, but declares that "whoever shall suffer any game whatdeclares that "whoever shall suffer any game whatever, at which money or property is won or lost, to be played in a house, boat, or float, or in premises under his control, shall be fined from two hundred to five hundred dollars for each offense." The obvious intent of the provision was to suppress a pervicious and ruinous vice by prohibiting gambling honses of any description, whether upon a large or small scale. And the court properly instructed the jury that if the defendant knowingly permitted games at which money or property was won or lost games at which money or property was won or lost to be played in his house, and money, however small in amount, or property, however small in value, was, with his knowledge and permission, won or lost at such games, he came within the inhibition of the

The instruction, therefore, asked for by appellant, containing the converse of the instruction grauted, was obviously erroneous and properly refused.

The case of Ritte vs. Commonwealth (June term, 1857) presented altogether a different question, and is not in point. The inquiry in that case was whether the bagatelle table or machine used by those who frequented the house came within the description of frequented the house came within the description of tables, machines, or contrivances denounced in the 6th section of the same chapter supra, under which Ritte was indicted, and not as to the amount of money or value of property bet necessary to constitute Judgment affirmed.

TEXAS .- A letter from Austin says:

We have established and endowed institutions for the insane, the deaf and dumb, the blind and the orphans, all on a firm basis. We have just passed a law establishing the University of Texas, for which 221,400 acres of land were set apart in 1839, and to which is now added one hundred thousand dollars in money and an indefinite amount of other valuable lands. We have appropriated $20,000 for a geological survey of the State, and at last have by law brought our lands into market at from fifty cents to one dollar and a half per acre. These things, with the fact that we have $2,250,000 of a common school fund, and that each of the one hundred and fifty counties owns 17,000 acres of school lands, will show what kind of people the Texians are—intelligent, liberal, and magnanimous.

Our glorious young State will be the Empire State in twenty years, and second only to New York within ten. Our population now is near 600,000—in 1850 it was but 212,000. We have 124 organized counties, and 38 to organize, generally containing 900 square miles each, and still one-half the State is a square mines each, and still one-half the state is a wilderness. We have just passed a law providing for free negroes to choose musters, as most all among us desire to do, and also a bill to prevent emancipation by will. We will not have the curse of free negroes upon us.

WHAT A GREAT FOUNDERY IS DOING .- At this time there is work being done at the Novelty Works for the Russian, Austrian, Egyptian, and Spanish governments. The first vessel built at this estabgovernments. The first vessel built at this establishment for the Russian government was so satisfactory that she ordered a fine steam frigate, which will be called the "Japanese," also another vessel, that will be the largest ever built in this city. She will be 7000 tons, and, like the vessel now being finished, will be a screw propeller. The entire cost will probably exceed $1,000,000.

The work done for the Egyptian Viceroy is a monstrous pump, that is to be put up with a hydrulic engine for pumping, upon the banks of the Nile, to draw off water for the purpose of irrigating the fields. It will probably cost $30,000 or $40,000, and will be furnished early in March. For the Austrian government there is being made hydraulic machinery, engines, cradles, and locomotives, to be used with dry docks similar to those put up at Philadelphia and Pensacola for the U. S. government. This work will be finished in the course of four or five months. five months.

The work being done for the Spanish Government are massive lathes, intended for the arsenal at Havana. In addition, the Novelty Works have a large amount of work on hand for private companies. The most important is an iron steam vessel, intended to run on the Orinoco river and its branches. In ten days she will be put together in the shop. She wi be 168 feet in length and 26 feet in breadth. New York Express.

GREAT RAILROAD EXCITEMENT AT MILWAUKEE AND WATEHTOWN.—There has been considerable excitement in our city for the past three or four days, occasioned by M. D. C. Freeman's keeping possession of the Milwaukee and Watertown railroad after its sale by the La Crosse Company to the Madison, Fond du Lac, and Michigan Railroad Company, and rond du Lac, and Michigan Kailroad Company, and the latter company's attempt to take forcible possession of the road. On Saturday afternoon, a number of the directors and officers, accompanied by about thirty or forty men, proceeded to the depot in this city, just before the time for the train leaving for Watertown, turned off the conductors, engineers, and other officers, after some resistance on the part of the Freemen men, and took entire possession of the train. The "Jackson party" were so much in the ascendancy as to numbers that the other had no chance to make any resistance, and went on to Wachance to make any resistance, and went on to Watertown, ousting the Freemanites from each station as they went along, and giving possession to some of their own party. The thing was done so unceremoniously that little was known about it in this city until yesterday, when the leaders of the Jacksonites were hrought back in irons by the chief of police, to any real the observe of rictous conduct. to answer the charge of riotous conduct.

Mysterrous.-Some excitement was produced at the wharf this morning by the finding in the river of a barrel containing the bodies of two women. One of them was cut to pieces. They must have been in the water for some time. The barrel was one which had contained whisky, and it bears the brand of the distillery. From the appearance of one of the bodies, it had been that of a mulatto. Some seem to think there is foul play at the bottom of it, while others are under the impression that they were intended for or came from a dissecting room.

A FOUNDLING .- Last night, shortly after the alarm of fire, the family of Mr. Wm. Inman, who reside on the corner of Broadway and Fourth streets, heard a strange noise out of doors. Mr. Inman stepped out to see the cause, and found it to proceed from the lungs of a boy-baby. The little stranger was taken in, but we have not learned what disposition Mr. I. intends to make of him.

To Mr. J. M. Armstrong, clothier, on the northwest corner of Main and Fourth streets, we are indebted for New York papers in advance of the mail. Mr. A. will shortly receive a splendid stock of spring goods of the latest style.

Police Proceedings .- Friday, March 5 .- Chas. McCarthy, suspected felon. He had an outsider and a small surgical knife in his possession, and it is said passed a counterfeit $20 note some time ago. Bail in $300 for six months. Workhouse.

John Craighton, drunk. Bail in $100 for one month. Workhouse. Gothard Schnell bailed out of the workhouse.

Michael Comer, assault on Ben. Lochner. Bail in $100 to answer a misdemeanor and own recognizance in $100 for one year.

Ho, for UTAH!-The company now organising under Lieut. Rogers will have a meeting this evening (March 5th), at the Lafayette Engine House, at 7 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of electing officers.

The steamer David Gibson is still aground on the falls. Later from the Steamer James E. Woodruff .- The St. Louis Republican has the following:

The steamer Edward Walsh arrived from her ice harbor, ten miles below Hatisland, yesterday morning. She stopped at the Woodruff on Monday evening and took off the freight, cabin furniture, and all the moveables of the sunken boat, together with her crew. The Walsh left the Woodruff at 10 o'clock P. M., on Monday, and went a couple of miles above, where she laid up for the night. On Tuesday morning the Submarine had commenced pumping at the Woodruff, two bulkheads having previously been constructed in her hull. Every effort will be made to raise her, and the captain of the Submarine was sanguine of success. Some of the Woodruff's officers, however, were not so hopeful. St. Louis Republican has the following:

the Woodruff's omcers, nowever, were not so nope-ful.

The following freight was still in the hold of the Woodruff, and will be more or less damaged: 25 hogsheads sugar, 25 tierces rice, 150 barrels molas-ses, 25 barrels tar, and 150 packages of merchandise. All the freight for which there was room on the boil-er deck and main deck was removed out of the hold and is undamaged. The was no possible chance for stances, proved highly heneficial, and in others effected a decided cure.

This is a purely vegetable compound, prepared onstrictly sclentife principles, after the manner of the celebrated Holland Pr. fessor, Boerhave. Because of its great success in most of the European States, its introduction into the United States was intended more especially for those of our fatheriand scattered here and there over the face of this mighty country. Meeting with great success among them, I now offer it to the American public, knowing that its truly wonderful medicinal virtues must be acknowledged.

It is particularly recommended to those persons whose constitutions may have been impaired by the continuous use of ardent spirits, or other forms of dissipation. Generally Instantaneous in its effect, it finds its way directly to the seat of life, thrilling and quickening every uerve, raising up the drooping spirit, and, in fact, intusing new bealth and vigor in the system.

NOTIC'S—Whoever expects to find this a beverage will be disappointed; but to the sick, weak, and low spirited it will prove a grateful aromatic cordial, possessed of singular remedial properties.

CAUTION.

The great popularity of this delightful Aroma bas Induced many imitations, which the unblic should grant stowing the whole or it out of the reach of the water, or it could all have been saved. The stern is down in twelve feet water, the hull The stern is down in twelve feet water, the hull being straight at the bow and amidships. The main hog chain had not parted when the Walsh left, all the other chains having broken. There was eight feet water in her hull, forward, and the stern was in water up to the name on the wheel-house. Previous to building the bulkheads referred to the Submarine had tried to number out without was a The had tried to pump her out without success. The hull was very much broken between the cylinders, and it was supposed that the kelson was broken.

The stauncheons and braces on deck, between the cylinpers, had been forced up through the cabin floor, and had broken it up for a space of twenty feet.

DIED.

On the 24th of February, at his residence in Elizabeth. own, Ky., Major BENJAMIN HELM, in the 91st year of his Major Helm was one of the oldest and most respeciable citizens of Kentucky. He was born in the State of Virginia, immigrated to Kentucky at a very early period, and was subject to the trials and dangers of border life. He was often called to endure even more than many of the early settlers. In the winter of 1780, then but a lad of thirteen, finding the family destitute of provisions, on the 35th of December, through the snow, and without shoes, he walked to Louisville, a distance of forty-five nuiles, where be procured the necessary supplies. He was a noble specimen of the past generation.

In the Democratic convention the committee on resolutions unanimously reported, declaring that the principle involved in the repeal of the Missouri compromise and asserted in the Nebraska act, that the people of the territories shall have control of their domestic institutions, is the only sure guarantee against agitation of the nation in regard to the local institutions of the States and territories, and that by a uniform application of the Democratic principle in the organization of territories for admission as new States, with or without slavery, as the people may elect, the equal rights of all the States will be preserved, the original compacts of the constitution served, the original compacts of the constitution maintained inviolate, and the harmony and perpetuity of the Union be preserved. The Lockwood is the ninth or tenth steamboat has been destroyed by fire in the last four The first was the Fanny Fern below Cincounti, then the four boats at New Orleans, the Pelican in Arkansas river, the Eliza Battle in the Malama river, the H. A. Jones above Cincinuati. and now the Lockwood.

DANGEROUS ALTERED NOTE .- A one dollar note Southern Band of Kentucky (new plate), al-Ormal to a five, has made its appearance in l'itts-The note is altered by pasting the words The solars over the one dollar line, and also pasting The figure five over the figure one on the upper right hand carner. The lower left hand corner of the note has been burnt, leaving the upper half of the letter Named the letter E, making the word appear as though it read five. On the genuine "ones" on this Tank the upper left corner is a country scene-a washing corn-a woman sitting on the ground with a basket on her lap, and a negro boy holding a with fence, hogs, and house in the background. On the upper right hand corner a figure me, is thiney dye work, and on the lower right corwer a work of sheep. Below the title of the bank is a load of a young girl. The five-dollar notes on his lauk are different from this plate.

The New Orleans Picayune makes the following reference to the stock of the Southern Pacific THE PERSON !

in the 171, all the forfeited stock of the Southern Pacific Realized Congany—forfeited for the non-payment of actually installments—was sold at public sale. I found buyersom terms estisfactory to the company. The sale was speaced, without any discrimination in favor of any defapiling subscriber.

All estimates therefore, which are now outstanding upon which less than four per cent, has been paid, are valather, which set they have receipts for the past installment has been on, or be accompanied by such receipts from the payment of such Installments.

We been it proper to make this announcement for general information, that innocent parties may not be imposed upon by holders of certificates of the stock fortested and sold on the 17th. A notification of the forfeiting and sale the delinquent stock, with various installments paid of 3%, 3, 2b, and less amounts, on outstanding continuates, has perimed circular sent through the postofice, that no misprekension might exist with them and no injustice be influed upon manapecting parties who might feel disposed apportunes the stock of the company. Only the stock on which four per cent, has been paid is of any value.

We therefore suggest, as a matter of propriety and expeditions, for all who have paid their installments, and have access therefor, to send them to the office of the company in 2 kew Vork or in New Orleans, and have them replaced large in a state of propuerous propress, the stock will naturally be sought after. We deem it proper therefore to adsist great caution in the purchase of stock certificates with less than four per cent, book.

MOEMON HOSTILITIES - THE DANITES AND THEIR MURDERS.

CAMP SCOTT, Jan. 3, 1858. Feldmann, the hospital steward of the 10th infan-ary, who was taken prisoner by the Mormons while passing from the camp of the 10th to that of the 5th an flam's Fork, about the end of October, has been Repaired by Brigham Young, probably as an equiva-Lake City with Gov. Cumming's proclamation. He arrived at Camp Scott last evening, accompanied by the Mormons during the month of October, and were released at the same time with himself. Gen. Wells furnished them with conveyance from Salt Lake City to Bear Ever, and from there they made their way through that they might cut them off.

The system of espionage practiced toward this expedition by the Mormons has been complete and expedition by the Mormons has been complete and successful. Not a single detachment of troops, nor a train, nor hardly even a party of civilians traveling across the plains, either on business or for pleasure, left the Missouri border during the summer without being accompanied by a Mormon spy in some subordinate capacity, such as teamster or cook. I do not know what additional precautions could have been employed against this system. The baggage of a suspected person might, if searched, furuish means of detection. On the breast, and on one if not both arms, a piece in the shape of a lozenge is cut out, and then inserted with a broad seam.

CAMP SCOTT, Jan. 4, 1858. The Mormon Legislature—The Mormon Legislature met, as was announced, at Salt Lake City, on Dec. 14. The council organized by the choice of Heber C. Kimball as President, and the House of Representatives elected John Taylor Speaker. On the 15th, Brigham Young sent in his message. On the 21st, the two legislative branches unanimonsly adopted and signed a series of resolutions endorsing Young's message, and pledging themselves to sus-tain him in the rebellion. On the 22d, they passed an act atlaching Green River county, in which the U. S. troops are encamped, to Great Salt Lake

Brigham Young's Message - Extracts .- Has Utah Brigham Young's Message—Extracts.—Has Utah ever violated the least principle of the Constitution, or so much as broken the most insignificant constitutional enactment? No; nor have we the most distant occasion for so doing, but have ever striven to peacefully enjoy-and extend those rights granted to all by a merciful Creator. But so unobtrasive and wise a course does not seem to please those who live and wish to live by office, and those who make and love lies; and since those characters are numerous, and also powerful through well-disciplined organization, and since Utah bas yielded right after right for the sake of peace, until her policy has emboldened the enemies of our Union, it must needs be that President Buchanan, if he has ordered an army to Utah as reported—for he has not officially army to Utah as reported—for he has not officially notified me of such a movement by his order—has at length succumbed, either of choice or through being overcome, to the cruel and nefarious counsels of those enemies, and is endeavoring to carry out a usurpation of power which of right belongs only to the people, by appointing civil officers known to be justly objectionable to freemen and sending a so-called army under mere color of law to force those officers upon us at the point of the bayonet, and to form a nucleus for the collection and protection of every gambler, cut-throat, whoremuster, and scoundrel who may choose to follow in their train. Such a treasonable system of ouerations will never 1 cm. being overcome, to the cruel and nefarious counsels a treasonable system of operations will never be en-dured, nor even countenanced, by any person possessed of the least spark of patriotism and love of sessed of the least spark of patriotism and love of constitutional liberty.

The President knew, if he knew the facts in the case, as he was in duty bound to do before taking action, that the officials hitherto sent here had been invariably received and traated with all the respect their offices demanded, and that a portion of them had met with far more courtesy than elsewhere would have been extended to them, or their conduct deserved; he also knew, or had the privilege of knowing, that the memorial of the last Assembly, as already stated, respectfully informed him that Utah wished good men for officers, and that such officers would be cordially welcomed and obeyed, but that we would not again tamely endure the but that we would not again tamely endure the abuse and misrule meted by official villains, as were some who have formerly officiated here. Such being a few of the leading facts, what were the legiti-mate inferences to be drawn from the 1 umors that the President had sent a batch of officials, with an army to operate as their posse? That he had will-fully made the official appointments for Urah from a class other than good men, and placed himself, where tyrants often arc, in the position of levying war against the very nation whose choice had made him its chief executive officer.

Fully aware, as has been justly written, that patriotism does not consist in aiding government in every base or stupid act it may perform, but rather in paralyzing its power when it violates vested rights, affronts insulted justice, and assumes undelegated authority, and knowing that the so called army, reported to be on its way to Utah, was an undisguised mob, if not sent by the President of the United States, and if sent by him in the manner and for the purpose alleged in all the information permitted to reach us, was no less a mob, though in the latter event acting under the color of law, upon learning its near approach, I issued, as in constitutional duty bound, a proclamation expressly forbidding all bodies of armed men, nnder whatsoever name or by whomsoever sent, to come with soever name or by whomsoever sent, to come within the bounds of this Territory. That so-called army, or, more strictly speaking, mob, refused to obey that proclamation, copies of which were of ficially furnished them, and prosecuted their march to the neighborhood of Forts Bridger and Supply, which were vacated and burnt upon their approach, where it is said they intend to winter. Under Syr these circumstances I respectfully suggest that you take such measures as your enlightened judgment may dictate, to insure public tranquillity, and pro-tect, preserve, and perpetuate inviolate those ina-lienable constitutional rights which have descend-ed to us as a rich legacy from our forefathers.

ed to us as a rich legacy from our forefathers. A civilized nation is one that never infringes upon the rights of its citizens, but strives to protect and make happy all within its sphere, which our Government, above all others, is obligated to accomplish, though its present course is as far from that wise and just path as the earth is from the sun. And, under the aggravated abuses that have been heaped npon us in the past, you and the whole people are my witnesses that it has more particularly fallen to my lot and been my policy and practice to restrain rather than urge resistance to usurpation and tyranny on the part of the enemies to the Constitution and Constitutional laws (who are also our enemies and the enemies of enemies to the Constitution and Constitutional laws (who are also our enemies and the enemies of all republics and republicans), until forbearance under such cruel and illegal treatment cannot well be longer exercised. No one has denied, or wishes to deny, the right of the Government to send its troops when, where, and as it pleases, so it is but done clearly within the authorities and limitations of the Constitution, and for the safety and welfare of the people; but when it sends them clearly without the pale of those authorities and limitations, unconstitutionally to oppose the people, as is tions, unconstitutionally to oppress the people, as is the case in the so-called army sent to Utah, it com-mits a treason against itself which commands the resistance of all good men, or freedom will depart

The Case of Wolcott —We have read with great care the opinion of the Hon. Reverdy Johnson in this case; and we cannot resist the impression that, whatever may be the rights and powers of a committee of Congress, the investigation committee appointed to investigate the alleged corruption of members in the passage of the Tariff of 1857, so prosecuted their inquiry as to justify Wolcott in the stand he took under the advice of counsel. They did not, it appears to us, properly arrange their questions so as to elicit the information they desired. But be this as it may: the case has now gone to the courts; and snch is our confidence of the legal acumen of Mr. Johnson, that we are prepared to see Wolcott trinmph.—N. Y. Courter.

DAILY REVIEW OF THE MARKET, LOUISVILLE, March 5. \(\)
The market still continues dull. Flour nominally $3 90

⊕#4 for city mills by the drayload. A saic of 30 bbls good country mills at $3 75. We quoted wheat yesterday at 65 @70c, but some of the millers are still paying 75c for prime

There was a little better demand for sugar, caused by more favorable advices from New Orleans. A private dis-patch quotes "fully fair at 5% and prime at 6% c and firm and molasses 30c." A sale of 33 hhds at 6%c, 8 at 5%c, and 14 at 6@6%c. A sale of 30 bags coffee at 11%c and 10 bags at 11%c. In molasses small sales at 32c. Sales of 30 bble refined sngar at 11%c.

The stocks of coffee in New Orleans, New York, and Bal more on the 1st Inst. aggregate 91.477 bags against 278,297 bags on the 1st of January last.

The stock of sugar at New York on the 1st instant was 12.193 hhds (including 8,152 hhds New Orleans), 1,512 bags, and 5,928 boxes against same time last year of 12,092 hhds (no New Orleans) and 25,620 bxs.

The stock of molasses in New York on the 1st Inst. was 5,731 hhds and 2.928 bbls against same time last year of 2,609 hhds and 4,303 bbls.

Provisions dull. These of 105 hbls mess pork at $15 and 100 casks bacon, one clear sides, for shipment, at 6% c for shoulders, 9c for clear sides and hams, pkgs extra, and llc for Falls City hams. Bacon from the country was purchased by dealers at 6c for shoulders. Sc for hams, and 83-@8%c for clear sides, and lard 8%c for hbl and 9%@10c for keg. Advices from New Orleans are unfavorable. The following is a private dispatch from New Orleans:

New ORLEANS, March 3 Mess pork is in fair demand and firm at $16. Bacon dull at $26000 for sides and 700730 for shoulders. Bulk meats are irrner. Lard is dull at 192000 [30] for bbl. Flour nominal. Total stock of pork in the yards 14,000 bbls, and in private hands 8,000 bbls.

The commercial editor of the Cincinnati Gazette dently doubts the accurary of the statement of the stock of pork. He says:

If 29,000 bbls covers the entire stock, it is, considering the large receipts at that port, surprisingly small. The receipts at that port from September 1st to February 29th, were 165,499 bils, and the exports 1,410 bbls. Including the reported stock of 20,000 bbls, and 74,439 bbls remain to be accounted for. The exports include all coartwise and foreign cisarances, and if the figures presented are correct, there has been taken for consumption in the interior the extraordinary quantity of 74.439 bbls, being an increase, as compared wish last year, of uear 100 g cent.

CLOSING SALE.

In accordance with our annual custom, we, at the close of each season, offer the balance of our stock remaining on hand at prices much lower than usual. Owing to the financial revulsion which has overshadowed the community for the last three months, we have been obliged to

MARK DOWN OUR STOCK from time to time, in order to meet the pressure, and have availed ourselves largely of the rare opportunity offered to PURCHASE FOR CASH, the benefit of which we have been and are still offering to our generous patrons.

To all who have not already supplied themselves we would say that this OPPORTUNITY TO PURCHASE

DRY GOODS is seldom if ever equaled.

Thankful for the generous support thus far given us, we cordially wish our friends

"A Happy New Year" and a speedy return of prosperity.

We would respectfully call the attention of the public to a MAZINE CHEONOMETER placed in our window, showing the exact time. It is entirely of American manufacture, and has been exhibited at the World's Fair in Paris in commessition with the best Lon-

American manifacture, and has been exhibited at the World's Fair in Paris in compelition with the best London and French Chronouncters, and also at the World's Fair in Naw York, and in every instance has received the highest premium for unequalled workman-ship and correct time-keeping.

To our watch department we have secured the services of Mr. Ed. Helwig, of New York, Mr. Il. can execute any kind of watch-work fully equal to Jurgensen, Frodsham, Adams, or any of the first London or Swiss nukers.

In many fine Watches that are broken, parts are substituted greatly luferior to the original, the customer paying fune full price for a perfect piece of work. The Waich apparently performs well afterward for a while, but is more imperfect and less valuable than originally.
